Juan Pablo dreamed of a better country

Juan Pablo believed deeply in Colombia, its people, and the power of education to transform lives. His story ended too soon, but his mission was just beginning.

From pain came a mission

After Juan Pablo’s death, his family decided to turn their grief into opportunities for other young Colombians.

That is how the Fundación Juan Pablo Gutiérrez Cáceres was founded.

One opportunity can change generations

For more than 18 years, the foundation has helped talented young people from low-income backgrounds pursue graduate studies.

Each scholarship does more than just change one life, it transforms families, communities, and entire futures.

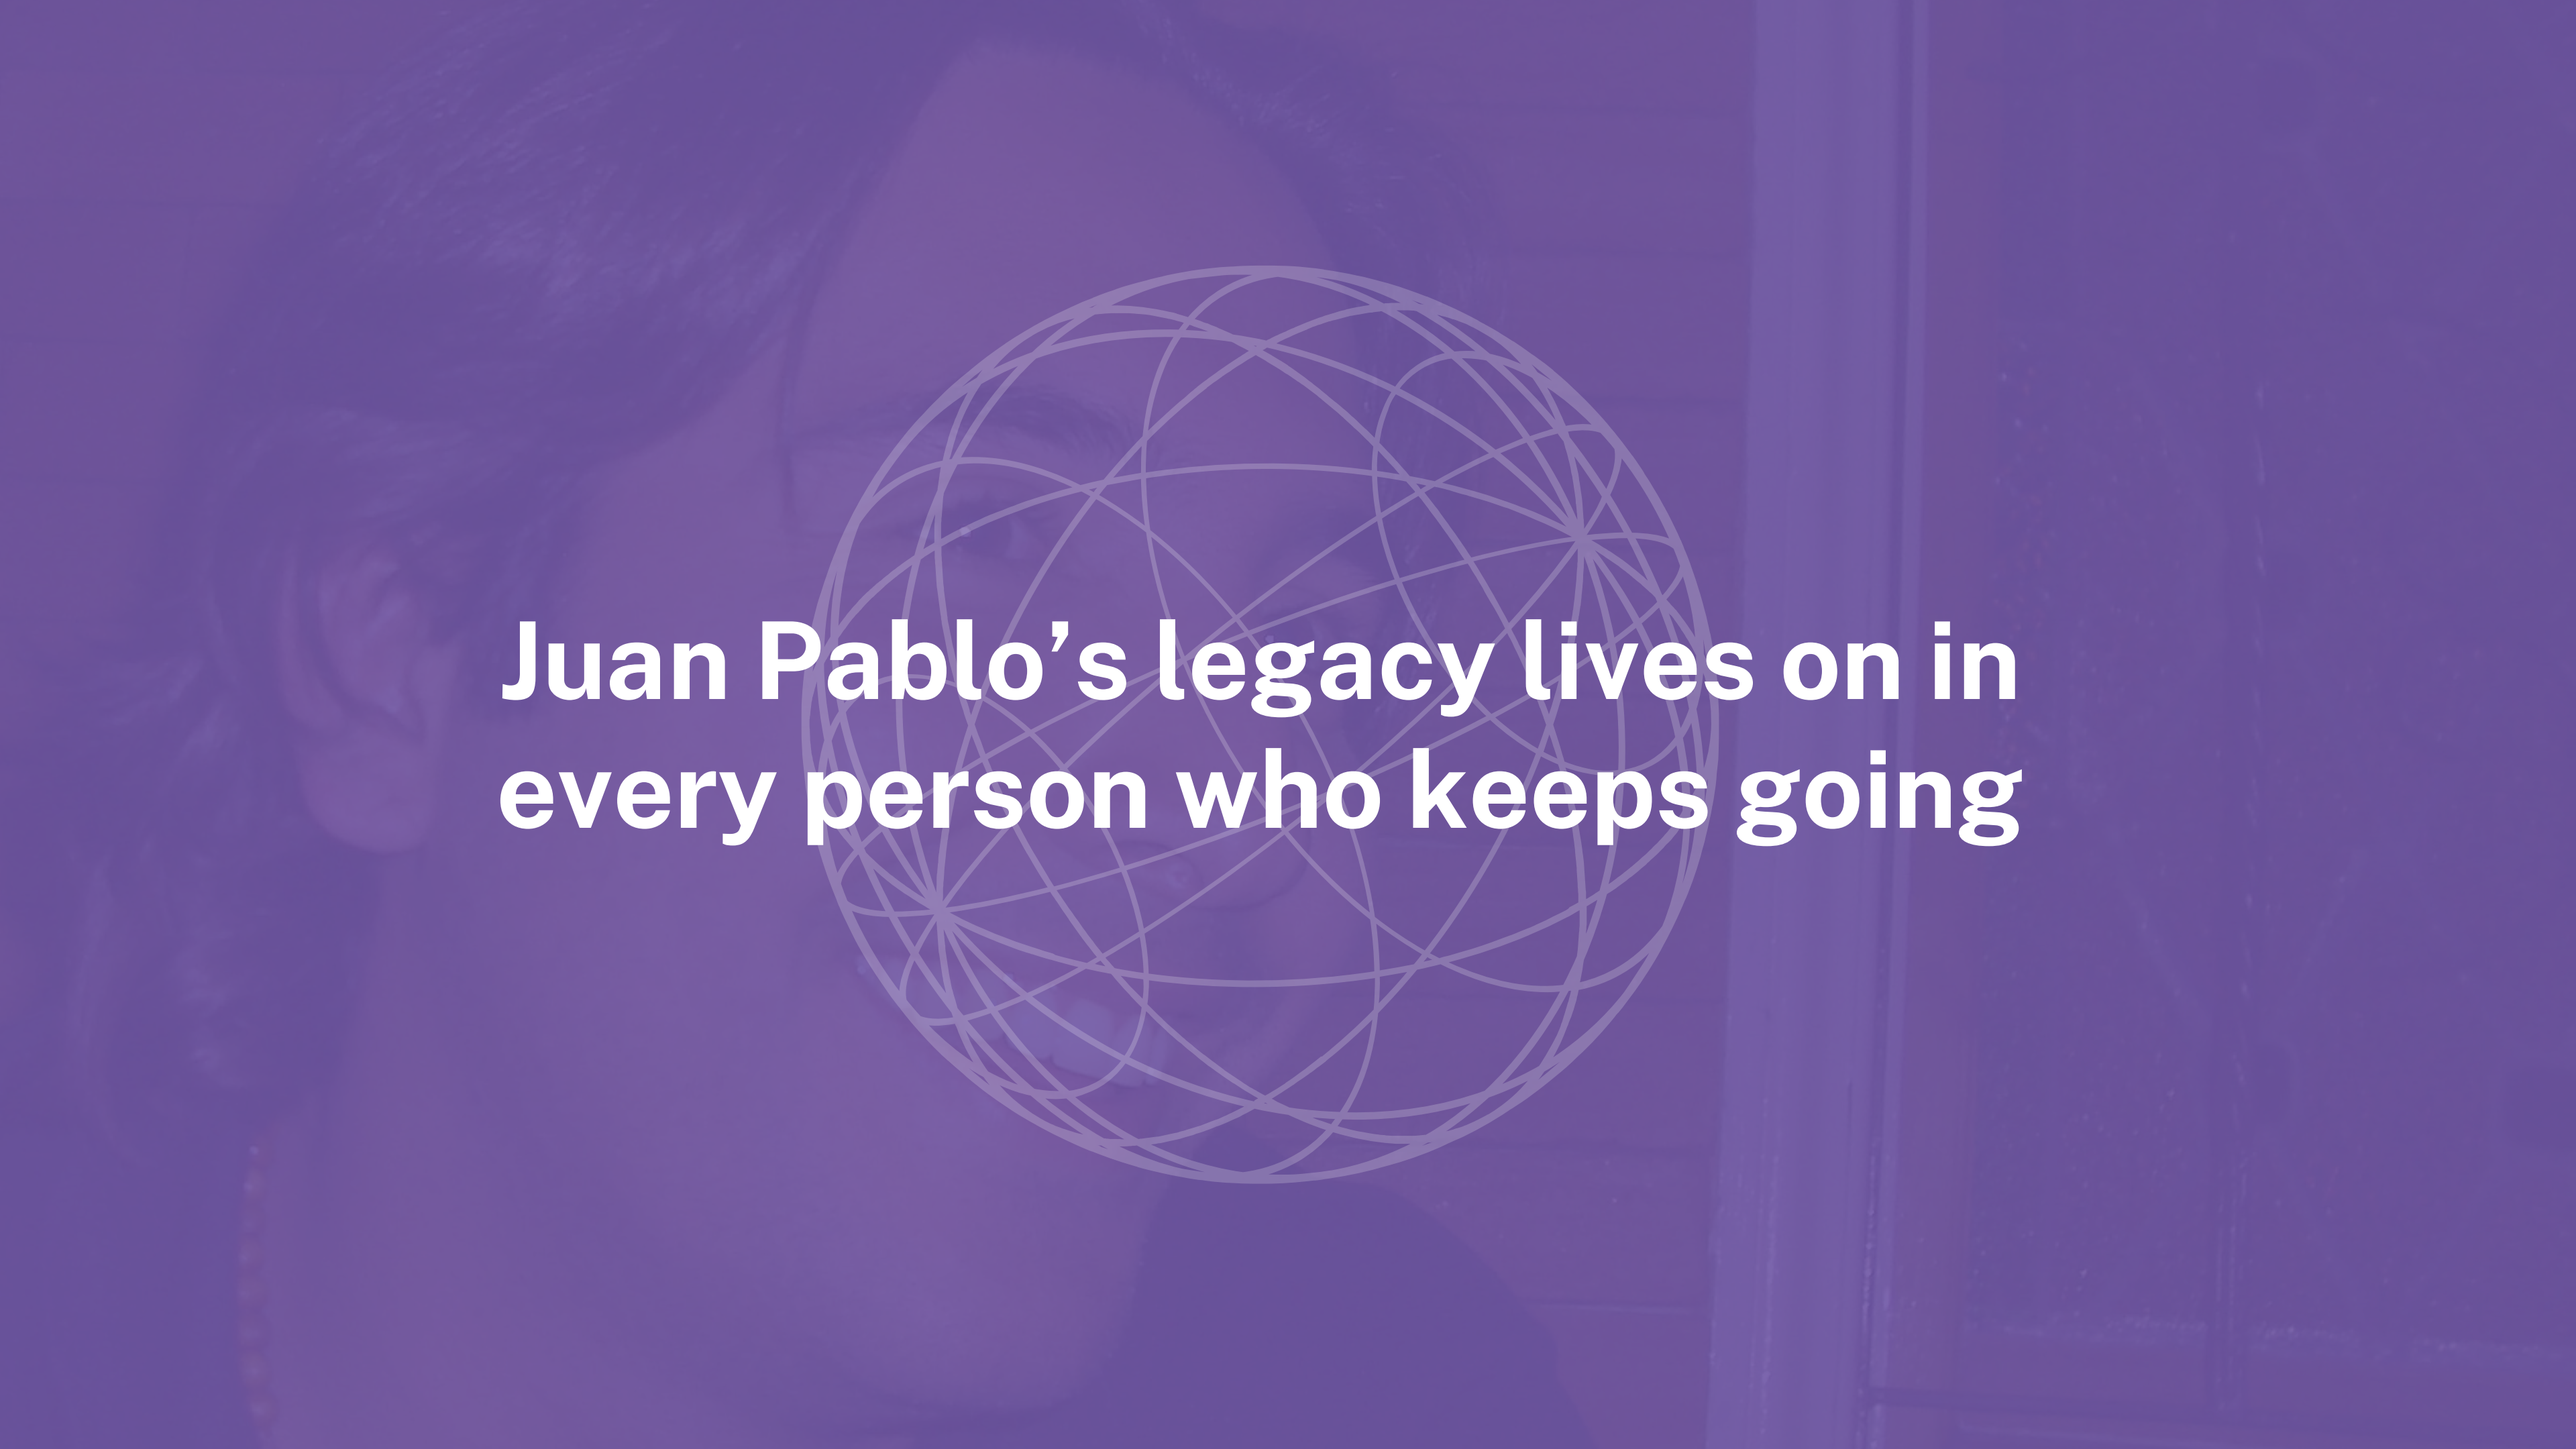

Behind every scholarship there is a story

People who were on the edge of giving up on their dreams are now leading projects, investigating, teaching, and making a difference in Colombia, all thanks to a single opportunity.

649 scholarships granted

More education, more opportunities, and more hope.
