CHALLENGES ENCOUNTERED

Despite the progress made, several challenges continue to affect our programme implementation.
Limited financial resources: The organisation receives some support from well wishers that is not always sufficient to meet the growing needs of vulnerable children and other beneficiaries.

School dropout: Poverty, unpaid school requirements, lack of meals and inadequate learning materials continue to place children at risk of leaving school.

Menstrual health challenges: Some girls still lack reliable access to menstrual hygiene materials and appropriate information.
Inadequate sanitation infrastructure: The poor condition of the existing toilet facilities at Mwanyagiri Primary School remains a major concern.

Limited digital resources: Access to computers, internet connectivity, furniture and trained tutors remains a challenge for the community computer hub.

Increasing vulnerability: The number of children and households requiring support places additional pressure on available resources.

Skills development limitations: Vocational training requires equipment, trainers, materials and sustainable funding.

LESSONS LEARNT

Our experiences have demonstrated that:
Early identification of vulnerable children improves the effectiveness of support.
School meals can contribute to children's concentration and participation.
Menstrual health support is important for girls' dignity and school retention.
Community involvement strengthens programme ownership.

Donor partnerships are essential for expanding services.
Regular monitoring and accurate reporting strengthen accountability.
Sustainable interventions require long-term planning rather than short-term assistance alone.
